

CORPORATE INFO

The Dubbo Regional Livestock Markets (DRLM) is considered one of the largest selling centres in Australia in terms of combined sheep and cattle numbers. In the financial year 2017/2018 1,477,112 sheep and 241,282 cattle were sold through the facility. DRLM began operations as the Troy Saleyards in 1950 at its current site on Boothenba Road, Dubbo.

The facility is owned by Dubbo Regional Council. Producers buy and sell stock on sale days at the DRLM.

12 licensed stock and station agents operate at DRLM, ensuring a maximum of efficiency and service to clients. The sales are supported by meat companies, butchers, farmers and feedlot operators.

The DRLM provides a total contribution of $75.6M in total output and supports 320 full time equivalent positions to the local economy.

Building a Premier Market

The DRLM has been undergoing some exciting upgrades designed to secure the facility as a premier markets Australia wide.

In 2015 a $4.1M upgrade of the sheep selling facilities created yards with additional carrying capacity and a complex designed and constructed with ease of use and animal welfare in mind.

In 2016 construction started on a $6.6M upgrade and expansion of the cattle facilities. This upgrade provides:

- an additional weighbridge
- new wagon wheel delivery pen to scales
- provision of an additional delivery lane - completed
- provision of double deck loading ramps
- an additional 126 selling pens
- upgrade of pre-sale drafting yards and crush
- additional feed yards

The upgrade to the cattle facilities are funded from the Australian Government's National Strong Region fund matched dollar for dollar with contributions from Council.

All these improvements are geared towards better animal welfare, a safer working environment, greater efficiency and capacity.
