More information on Sam Cawthorn

In October 2006 Sam's life changed forever when he was involved in a major car accident, where he was pronounced dead. He was thankfully resuscitated but left with an amputated right arm and a permanent disability in his right leg.

Sam was hospitalised for over 5 months and was told that he may not survive, and best case was that if he was to survive, he would never walk again. A year later he defied all odds taking his first steps into a new life, where his story would continue to inspire and change the lives people all over the world.

Forever the opportunist Sam chose life, and is now a hugely successful professional keynote speaker, reaching over 20 million people around the world each month. Sam is at the forefront of global trends and has the unique ability to transform impossibilities into possible realities. Sam's thought leadership is in peak performance and turnarounds and his research is in his message to not bounce back but bounce forward through difficult times.

Sam founded and is now CEO for Speakers Institute and The Indian Institute for Professional Speakers. He is dedicated to empowering personal and organisational development and is doing this through his speaker protégés who are becoming the best speakers in the world.

Sam has a diverse background within the Australian Government as a Youth Futurist and is also a highly skilled musician, and one of the only people in the world that plays the guitar with an above elbow amputation. He also brags as having the most advanced bionic arm in the world which he programs with his iPhone 5S.

Sam's passion stretches as far as India where he has set up his own charity supporting people living with a disability in some of the poorest places on earth.

Sam walks his talk, and it is through his experience that his authentic message is heard. After all we only have one life...
